

Special issue call for papers

The Australian Community Psychologist

Ignored no longer: Emerging indigenous researchers on indigenous psychologies

Call for papers: 12 July 2011

Submission deadline: 19 August 2011

Edited by Mohi Rua, Bridgette Masters and Dr Shiloh Groot (The Maori & Psychology Research Unit, University of Waikato)

Background

In many respects indigenous psychologies remain marginalised in the broader discipline of psychology. Previous psychological research has all but ignored indigenous histories, circumstances, and worldviews. Further, it rarely employs cultural concepts germane to these distinct groups in an interpretation of their lived realities. This omission reflects a missed opportunity. The development of many indigenous psychologies has been closely associated with processes of decolonization and with assisting minority groups to find a voice and gain access to resources for self-determination. Dissatisfaction with the unquestioned, derivative, and explicative nature of psychological research that is deeply rooted in individualistic strands of Western psychology has led indigenous researchers to look outside the discipline in order to begin solving the devastating problems within their own communities.

Many decisions shaping the circumstances of indigenous peoples are made beyond their lifeworlds, and it is up to us, as critical Indigenous scholars working with community groups, to help bridge this divide through advocacy and joint action. As current and future psychologists, we need to situate our work within local socio-political contexts. This special issue will highlight analytic approaches informed by indigenous world views which are crucial for extending our psychological engagements with human diversity in more complex and relevant ways.

Focus of the special issue

This special issue explores the breadth of indigenous psychologies through the current work of emerging indigenous researchers. The primary aims of the issue are to:

- To showcase the breadth of research currently being conducted by emerging indigenous researchers on issues of relevance to indigenous people
- To profile the diversity of indigenous research
- To consider the position of emerging indigenous psychologies within the broader discipline of Aotearoa, Australia and the wider South Pacific.

Indigenous psychologies recognise that people have a complex and highly developed understanding of themselves and there is more than one legitimate psychological approach to understanding the social world, the place of different people within it and frameworks for conceptualising social relations.

Preference of submissions:

Preference will be given to submissions from emerging indigenous researchers engaged in work that is fundamentally action orientated and focused on real world problems faced by Indigenous communities.

Deadlines and submission process

The deadline for submissions is Friday the 19 August, 2011. The issue will be published in early 2012. Authors should read the Instruction to Authors document attached to the call for submission process and formatting. Further information can be obtained from Mohi Rua on mrua@waikato.ac.nz.

The Australian Community Psychologist 2011

Special Issue: Ignored no longer - Emerging indigenous researchers on indigenous psychologies

Submission process for Manuscripts

The Australian Community Psychologist publishes work that is of relevance to community psychologists and others interested in the field. Research reports should be methodologically sound. Theoretical or area review papers are welcomed, as are letters, brief reports and papers by newer contributors to the discipline. Contributions towards the four sections of the journal are sought.

The Australian Community Psychologist is published twice per year and online and is available via the website of the Australian Psychological Society's College of Community Psychologists' page (<http://www.groups.psychology.org.au/GroupContext.aspx?ID=883>).

Articles

Contributions that are state of the art reviews of professional and applied areas and reviews and essays on matters of general relevance to community psychologists. They are between 4,000 and 5,000 words, including all tables, figures and references.

Research Reports

This section is for the publication of empirical research reports relevant to community psychologists. They are between 4,000 and 5,000 words, including all tables, figures and references.

Practice Issues

This section publishes individual manuscripts and collections of manuscripts which address matters of general, professional and public relevance, techniques and approaches in psychological practice, professional development issues, and professional and public policy issues.

Book Reviews

The journal publishes book reviews of up to 1,000 words. Books reviewed relate directly to the major areas of practice in community psychology.

Review and Publication of Manuscripts

The acceptable word processing programme format is Microsoft Word. All manuscripts are to be submitted electronically to the:

Co-editor

Mohi Rua

email: mrua@waikato.ac.nz

If authors experience any difficulty with electronic submission, hard copy materials together with a disc copy should be sent to:

Mohi Rua

Maori & Psychology Research Unit

School of Psychology

The University of Waikato

Private Bag 3105
Hamilton 3240
New Zealand

With the exception of book reviews, all contributions are blind-reviewed.
Articles submitted for review must be original works and may not be under consideration elsewhere.

It is a condition of publication that authors assign the copyright of their articles to the Australian Psychological Society.

All manuscripts for consideration for publication in The Australian Community Psychologist must be formatted according to the instructions for authors below.

Instructions for Authors

The following constitutes advice to contributors that is relevant generally to all journal sections.

Every submission must include:

A cover letter stating the section of the journal to which the author(s) wish to submit the article.

The complete manuscript including title page, abstract, text, tables, acknowledgements, references and illustrations.

Written permission from the publisher (copyright holder) to reproduce any previously published tables, illustrations or photographs.

Manuscripts should be arranged as follows:

- Title page
- Abstract (150 words max) and keywords
- Text
- Acknowledgements
- Disclosures if required
- References
- Short biography of author/s (e.g., name, institution, country, indigenous affiliation(s), tribal affiliation(s) which will be published in the ‘list of authors’).
- Address for correspondence from readers (e.g., an email address)

Tables and figures should be placed in the correct position within the body of the text.

Number pages consecutively, beginning with the Title page as page 1.

Sections of the Manuscript

Title Page should contain:

- Title: Should be short and informative. Recommended length is between 10 and 12 words.
- Short title with a maximum of 50 characters
- Author: This should include the author’s name in the preferred form of given name, family name.
- Institution and Affiliations: This identifies the location where the author(s) undertook the investigation.

Corresponding Author: Provide the name, exact postal address with post code, telephone number, fax number and email address of the author to whom communications and requests for reprints should be sent.

Indigenous Languages

We encourage the use of non-English or indigenous words in the text of the manuscript with the use of English words in brackets. We do not encourage the use of italics for indigenous or non-English words.

If words require lengthy definitions or qualifying information, insert a footnote (but keep this to a minimum).

A glossary for all indigenous or non-English words at the end of the article will be helpful.

Be aware that the reader and your audience may not have competency in the indigenous language you are using.

Specific Formatting Requirements

Paper Size, Margins, Alignment

A4 page, ALL margins 2.5cm.

Spacing

All text double spacing, left aligned (not justified) unless otherwise specified.

Font & Size

Times New Roman, 12pt unless otherwise specified.

Paper Title

14pt, bold, centred, sentence case.

Place one line after the paper title.

Abstract and Keywords

12pt, italics, left aligned.

Place one blank line before and after the abstract.

The abstract must be no more than 200 words.

Place up to 6 (six) keywords.

Normal Text

12pt, Times New Roman double line-spacing, left aligned (not justified)

Do not leave line spaces between paragraphs but indent the first line of each paragraph.

Long Quotes (roughly, quotes of 30 words or more)

12pt, italics, indented 1 cm left and right

1st Level Heading

Sentence case, bold, centred, not italics.

1st Level of Subheading

12pt, italics, sentence case, left aligned.

Leave one line space before this level of subheading.

Do not number subheadings.

2nd Level of Subheading

12pt, italics, sentence case, left aligned. Text should continue on the same line.

Leave one line space before this level of subheading.

Tables, Figures, and Diagrams

Captions in 12pt and typed below the figure. These should be black and white and inserted in the correct place within the body of the text. Do not allow a figure or table to be split over two pages or to be separated from its label or caption.

Diagrams, illustrations, graphs, etc, must be 'screen readable'. This means fully legible and readable on screen when displayed at widths that ideally do not exceed about 750 pixels and certainly should not exceed 1000 pixels.

Page Numbers

Insert page numbers at the top of the page, right aligned, beginning with the title page.

Footnotes

Avoid using footnotes.

References and Citations

Use the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association Sixth Edition citation and reference style. List references under the 1st level subheading,