In case there was any doubt, community psychologists (still) wanna have fun as well as change the world in 2019. So, we're heading back to the scene of last year's winter gathering for another lazy Sunday afternoon, this time in autumn. It's a purely social event and a great chance to reconnect with old friends you may have lost contact with. In particular, we'll welcome a brand new cohort of Vic Uni Community Psychology Masters students. Oh, and speaking of the VU Masters, it's 25 years this year since the first intake - that's worth celebrating too. Drop in for one drink or a couple, and share some finger food for $10 a head - new students free.
